Divide your space

Using curtains to divide an open room may seem old-fashioned, but it's a simple, easy and effective way to create some privacy in small quarters. Curtains may allow you to use the space you have more efficiently, and they can hide clutter too. They can act as a wall, door, or cabinet, and they add a decorative touch. This tiny, 800-square-foot cabin actually sleeps six people. The curtain and rod shown are from The Shade Store.

Stacked up

Cabin and cottage kitchens are allowed to be relaxed, but still be functional when a crowd arrives. This kitchen has storage up high and out in the open for easy access and maximum capacity. There is a push ladder to keep everything in reach, a moveable island for extra prep room, and hooks on the wall for storage of larger pots and pans. Coffee cups and plates are even granted their own spots. That's thinking ahead!
